

The Carmel Pine Cone

Robinson Jeffers, poet and playwright of international renown, died on Saturday at the age of 75 in Tor House on Carmel Point, his home for the past 45 years.

In Hawk Tower beside Tor House, Robinson Jeffers wrote the poetry which made him famous. Much of it described Carmel and the California coast south to Big Sur.

For the last several years his health was failing. Before this, a tall, handsome man, seemingly aloof from the world, he strode about Carmel, along the shore and beach. He was a gentle person who would not hunt or fish because he could not bear to injure any living creature, but his narrative poems portrayed lustful violence and brutality of mankind in powerful verse similitudes of Biblical and classical Greek themes. His lyrical poems contrasted man's inability to live in peace with the beauties of nature.

This fall, frail and stooped, aged by illness, he attended one of Dame Judith Anderson's performances of excerpts from his dramas at the Wharf Theatre in Monterey. He did this in friendship. Robinson Jeffers wished to honor Dame Judith's local appearance. For many years an admirer of his work, she urged him to write a special play so she might interpret one of his strongly-drawn characters. This he did, and in 1947 in New York, Dame Judith played the leading role in Medea, his poetic adaptation of a classic Greek tragedy which immediately brought him recognition as a playwright.

Dame Judith also played the lead in another of Robinson Jeffers' poetic dramas, Tower Beyond Tragedy, first performed at the Forest Theater in Carmel. His third drama based on a Greek tragedy was The Cretan Woman.

He gathered background for his narrative poems of the coast region below Carmel by tramping the hills and canyons, also by listening to folklore related by early settlers and their descendants, long before the Coast Road was carved from the cliffs. He observed moods of the ocean, sky and land, studied trees and plants, birds and wildlife, embodied all in his poetry.

Robinson Jeffers came to Carmel in 1914 with his wife, Una. He described their arrival as follows, "When the stage coach topped the hill from Monterey, and we looked

Blanks, Edwards, Candidates For Carmel Council

As soon as city hall opened this morning Herbert Blanks, chairman of the Carmel Planning Commission, and Warren Edwards, principal of Carmel High School, took out candidacy papers for election to the city council on April 10. They have 15 days in which to obtain signatures from 5-10 Carmel citizens who endorse their candidacy and return the papers to city hall.

Both Blanks and Edwards told the Pine Cone they will file as soon as they obtain the signatures they desire on their candidacy papers.

Blanks, a partner in a Peninsula structural pest control business, has been a planning commissioner for six years and chairman since February, 1960. He was a charter member of the Carmel Forestry Commission. He is a former chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Church of the Wayfarer and a Past Master of Carmel Masonic Lodge. He was scoutmaster for Carmel Boy Scout Troop 86 for five years and for two years of this time a member of Monterey Peninsula Boy Scout Committee. He teaches a high school age Sunday School class at the Church of the Wayfarer.

Herbert Blanks was born in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1915. Four years later he came with his parents to live in Berkeley where his father, the late Anthony Blanks, was a speech professor at the University of California. His mother, Mrs. Blanks, is a Carmel resident.

Blanks graduated from University of California in 1919 with a B. S. degree in forestry. He then entered the Forest Service and was sent to Tahoe National Forest for two years, then joined the National Park service and spent four years at Sequoia National Forest before he entered the Army as an enlisted man in 1942. He was commissioned a second lieutenant the following year and served with the infantry in the Pacific Theatre and in Korea until 1946. He serves with the rank of major with U. S. Army Garrison (6211) at Fort Ord now.

At the conclusion of his army service he came to Carmel and spent a year exploring business opportunities here. He wanted to live in Carmel where his family had owned property since 1926. He and Eugene R. Scheffer are now partners in business.

Trustees Approve Curriculum For Grades 7-12 Requiring More English, Math And World History

Carmel School District trustees gave conditional approval to a new, slightly tougher curriculum for grades 7 through 12 last night. The condition was that, prior to final adoption of the slate of courses, administrators investigate the possibility of imposing a minimal requirement in foreign language to be met sometime in the six years.

In the curriculum presented last night, no foreign language requirement is made, though the courses offered are plentiful (beginning with first-year Spanish and French in the seventh year, running through sixth-year Spanish and French in the senior year, with four years of Latin possible).

And both High School Principal Warren Edwards, and Junior High Principal Dr. Walter Klas, who jointly presented the curriculum before the board, said student advisors would highly recommend a full foreign language course as an elective.

In general, changes in the new curriculum over the present one are these:

The six years of junior high and high school are more nearly an integrated unit than formerly, the junior high courses planned to lead logically into the senior high.

The English requirement has been raised from five years to six, history from four to five years, math from three years to four, music and art from two-thirds to one, and the industrial arts requirement now at two-thirds, has been eliminated.

Physical education remains six years; science remains three years, and homemaking, business education, journalism, dramatics, library practice and office practice remain (Continued on Page Sixteen)

Planners Recommend Corner Lot Demands Stay In City Code

Planning Commissioners, yesterday afternoon, decided no amendments to the city code should be made concerning building coverage on corner lots, adopted a policy for signs on the sides of buildings, approved a long list of signs in the business district, and spent an hour considering plans for the Vasconcellos motel at the corner of Juniper and Third.

Commissioner Fred Keeble gave the land use committee report on corner lots which the commission adopted and will recommend to the city council. The code states that a commercial building may have a frontage of 80 feet along the street, then must be set back 50 feet. This was impossible on a single corner lot. The city council requested the commission to recommend amendments to take care of the situation.

Yesterday's recommendations pointed out that a building on a corner lot could extend along the street on one side for 80 feet of a 100-foot deep lot, and the entire 40-foot frontage of the width on the second side. In the remaining 20 by 40 feet, space for required (Continued on Page Sixteen)

MARCH OF DIMES

Mrs. Karl Frank, chairman of the Mothers' March for the Carmel area, urgently needs volunteers to collect for the March of Dimes fund-raising event in Hatton Fields Mesa, South Carmel Hills, Carmel Point, Carmel Hills and in Carmel, south of Ocean Avenue.

Volunteers may make collections any time during the day on Tuesday. In the evening, all those participating in the March of Dimes are invited to meet at the Youth Center where coffee will be served and collections turned in.

Any mother wishing to help Mrs. Frank may telephone her at MAYfair 4-1148. (Continued on Page Sixteen)

Editor's Column

The Carmel P-TA safety committee, the Carmel Unified School District board of trustees, State Senator Fred Farr and Monterey County Supervisor Thomson J. Hudson are trying to have the State Division of Highways provide a footpath on the east side of Highway One from Carmel High School to the Carmel Valley Road. One hundred students each school day now are forced to walk along the highway going to and from school, in the morning at the time of peak traffic.

The Division of Highways does not usually provide pedestrian paths beside highways, also trees grow on the steep bank and deep gully bordering the road where the path is desired.

A representative of the Division of Highways indicated at a meeting attended by members of the safety committee, school board, Senator Farr and Mr. Hudson that (Continued on Page Sixteen)

Expert On Phonic Reading Approach Speaks Here Wed.

In Carmel for one day during a solid schedule of lecturing in various California cities, Miss Mae Carden of Glen Rock, New Jersey, will speak Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset School cafeteria, about her approach to reading and the complete language arts program she developed for her own private school in New York City, and which almost 200 schools use now.

An article about this educator's work appeared in a Saturday Evening Post, September 9, 1961, article entitled These Children Love To Read. Her method was one of those recommended by the group of Stanford and University of California professors who presented the San Francisco Curriculum Survey in 1960. Miss Carden's system, the Post article points out, "proceeds from phonics, reading, and spelling, to reading aloud with correct rhythm and intonation, grammar, and the relation of grammar to clarity and effectiveness in expression."

The reading supervisor in the Garwood, New Jersey, public schools, where the method has been used with success for 18 years, writes, 'Miss Carden's main (Continued on Page Sixteen)

PADRE VARSITY CLIPS LIVE OAK; LIGHTWEIGHTS UPSET

Coach Dick Lawitzke's Carmel High varsity hoop squad turned in a topflight job against the strong Live Oak High School quintet last Friday night, and picked up its first league win of the season. While the varsity found the competition at Live Oak to its liking, Coach Harold Lippstreu's high-flying lightweight crew received a rough jolt when the Little Acorns finished in front, 39 to 34.

Sparked by Jim Brown and Ted Leidig, Carmel's varsity had a 23-15 bulge at the half and finished with a comfortable 51-42 margin. Jim Kelley and Pete Morse, the two big men in the rebounding department, gave Carmel board control at both ends of the court and paved the way for the quick Carmel offense to operate. The Padres outshot the hosts from the floor, 19 to 16, and topped them from the free-throw line, 13 to 8.

Richard Wise and Al Arndt led the Little Padres in a losing cause, Wise hitting for 11 markers and Arndt making three field goals and six charity tosses. However, the well-balanced Live Oak team had 17 field goals to nine for the Carmel gang.

This Friday night the Padres host the San Lorenzo Valley Cougars in a triple-header starting at 5:30. The Cougars are riding high in the varsity division and also boast a highly competent lightweight crew. In big Steve Rodriguez, the Cougars have a performer who has made the mythical All-League team for the last two years, and is considered one of the finest hoop prospects in the CCAL. The Padres have to win this one to remain in contention for the league flag, while the visitors will be just as anxious to keep their record untarnished and stay close to the classy Gilroy Mustangs.

While San Lorenzo and Carmel are trading baskets at the Carmel pavilion, Gilroy will be at King City, Hollister at Pacific Grove, and Live Oak at Gonzales.

THROUGH THE HOOP

Coast Counties Athletic League Board of Managers chopped up the B-division into a northern and southern league for purposes of scheduling future basketball and baseball games. Instead of the double round-robin as has been the policy in the past, the northern schools will play each other twice and limit themselves to one game with the southern schools. Carmel will be in the southern division with Gonzales, King City, and Pacific Grove. The northern division will embrace Gilroy, Live Oak, Hollister, and San Lorenzo. Invitations for the Annual Carmel Invitational Basketball Tournament have been issued, with four teams from the CCAL B-division included in the invitation list. Outside schools include Saratoga, Gustin, St. Francis, and the champion of the Catholic Athletic League. A look at the league standings indicates the CCAL winner may be the only league champ in the tourney. A hot shooting performance by Ted Leidig gave the Carmel High varsity a 55-52 win over the scrappy Palma High quintet last Saturday night at Salinas. The little senior guard pumped through 24 points to match Palma's Dennis Gorman in the shooting department. Carmel's lightweights bounced back from a defeat at the hands of the Live Oak lights to clip Palma, 40 to 35, with Rich Wise registering 16 markers to lead the Little Padres to victory. Coach Clyde Klaumann's junior-varsity spanked the North Salinas jayvees, 48 to 40, as Jim Belvail and Stan Michelsen both hit in the double figures. The Carmel jayvees were no match for the Palma reserves who powered to a 42-16 win over the Carmel lads. So tight was the Palma defense that Coach Klaumann's charges could manage only four field goals during the game. Monterey High's varsity pulled away to an 18-point lead over the Carmel Padres in Tuesday night's practice game at Monterey, but the Toreadores were nearly overtaken by the hustling Red & Gray gang. Monterey substituted in the second half and Carmel moved to within four points of the hosts before Coach Brandlin could get his high-jumping first stringers back in the game. Big Pete Morse gave Monterey backboard aces a real fight to control the boards, but it was one Carmel jumper against the five from Monterey. The Carmel lightweights edged Monterey, 42 to 38, with Al Arndt showing the way for the Carmel ironmen. The five Carmel starters went all the way against Coach Jason Harbert's crew and were still going strong at the finish. Besides Arndt, the Carmel quintet included Jose Fernandez, Jack DeWitt, Rich Wise, and Enborg Halle.

DOUG FORD WINS CROSBY GOLF TOURNAMENT

One of the most popular golf professionals on the play-for-pay tour outlasted many things to win the 21st annual Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur golf championship. Doug Ford, a courageous golfer who fails to panic under extreme pressure, called on all his experience to overhaul Indiana's Joe Campbell on the 17th hole of Monday's final round and went on to defeat the former Hoosier cage star on the first hole of the playoff.

Besides defeating the world's best golfers enroute to the Crosby title, the likable Ford survived the most bitter weather ever thrown in the way of Bing and his friends. Windy gusts plagued Friday's play after the opening day threatened to break all attendance records for the charity event. On Saturday, things looked pretty good, and the optimistic weatherman predicted fair skies for the Sunday finals, only to have everything go wrong when a few inches of snow blanketed the Pebble Beach course early Sunday morning.

Tournament officials watched with trepidation while four groups braved the elements in the dawn patrol to finish the first hole. However, conditions became unplayable at the second green and the tournament was postponed until Monday. In addition to the white stuff which blanketed the course, Bing's golf festival saw its first sudden-death playoff; a player break his arm after teeing off at the treacherous Cypress Point 16th; three holes-in-one; and a

Monterey Institute Of Foreign Studies Announces Courses

Registration is now in progress for the spring semester at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies and will continue until February 3. Instruction begins on February 5 and ends on May 31.

Intensive, concentrated beginning courses will be offered in French, German, Italian, Spanish, Russian, Chinese Mandarin, and Japanese.

Special upper division courses in French and German have been organized for students who have attained a minimum fluency in these languages and who wish to maintain and develop their knowledge.

Textual studies of works in French, German, Italian, and Russian, and the histories of these languages will be the subject matter of the graduate courses in the division of languages and civilizations.

The Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies has recently been accredited by the Western College Association as a specialized institution which may grant an M.A. degree in teaching.

For further information write or telephone the Institute's offices, 425 Van Buren, Monterey, FR 2-3560.

Francis Johnson

Captain Francis B. Johnson (USN-Ret.), 63, of Carmel Meadows, died Sunday at Fort Ord Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Born November 27, 1888, in Waterbury, Connecticut, he was graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1922. During the naval career which followed, he was commander of the Air Fleet in Seattle, Washington, and received the Bronze Star during World War II, retiring after 30 years' service in June, 1952, in Washington, D.C.

Rosary was recited last night in Monterey, followed by Requiem Mass this morning at Carmel Mission Basilica. Interment was to follow with full military honors at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Surviving Captain Johnson are his wife, Mrs. Josephine N. Johnson of Carmel Meadows; two daughters, Mrs. John Plaggmier of Springfield, Virginia, and Mrs. Robert Wall of Carmel; a son, Francis Johnson, a student at the University of North Dakota; three brothers, John Johnson of Hartford, Connecticut, Charles Johnson of New Britain, Connecticut, and Harold Johnson of Pennsylvania; two sisters, Mrs. Frank Sullivan and Mrs. James Fitzgerald, both of Waterbury; and eight grandchildren.

John Dunkley

John Bourne Dunkley, 83, father of Mrs. Katherine Margaret Johansen of Carmel Valley, and a resident of this area for the past 16 years, died Thursday afternoon in a Salinas hospital.

Born May 15, 1878, he was a native of Picton, Ontario, Canada, and a member of Picton Lodge, F and AM, and Rameau Temple, Mystic Shrine of Toronto.

In addition to Mrs. Johansen, with whom he made his home, Mr. Dunkley leaves a son, Frank Elmer Dunkley of Monterey; a sister, Miss Mary Dunkley of Picton; a brother, Albert Dunkley of Toronto, and a grandson, Patrick Dunkley of Canada.

Final rites were held Saturday afternoon in Monterey, with the Reverend Don Johnson of Carmel Valley Community Church conducting the service. Inurnment followed in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove.

Martha Schiebel

Private services were held yesterday morning in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, for Mrs. Martha Anna Schiebel, 72, who died Sunday afternoon at her home in Pebble Beach after a long period of failing health.

Mrs. Schiebel, the wife of Ernest Schiebel with whom she came 14 years ago to Pebble Beach, was born on May 16, 1889, in Mitweida, Germany. The couple lived for many years in San Jose before coming to the Peninsula.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Schiebel is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Murch and Mrs. Minnie Olsen, and two grandchildren, Robert and Gary Olsen, all of San Jose.

The Reverend Walter Grumm of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Monterey, conducted the Wednesday rites, with the Paul Mortuary in charge of arrangements. Inurnment was to follow in El Carmelo Cemetery.

NEW ARTOGRAPHY SHOW
Artist Alexander Weygers will present a new group of camera studies for the first time on Saturday and Sunday at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the Tantamount Theatre in Carmel Valley.

Mr. Weygers classifies his newest artographs as phantasmagoria. A different series of pictures will be shown each evening.

Kramer School For Secretaries Expands Teaching Curriculum

Expansion of the curriculum at the Kramer School for Secretaries, located on Fifth Avenue near Juniper Street, was announced today by Mrs. James J. Kramer, owner and instructor.

Mrs. Kramer said the school is now offering a 24-week course which includes regular classes in shorthand (Gregg Simplified), typing, transcription, bookkeeping, filing and indexing.

Mrs. Kramer, who opened her school in Carmel five months ago, attended schools in her native San Francisco and worked during the war years as a draftsman in the engineering department of a wartime industrial firm. She attended the University of California, after which she worked as a secretary for both engineering and publishing firms, later combined her drafting knowledge and secretarial skills to become executive secretary with Hertzka and Knowles, architects.

The Kramer School, purpose of which is, according to the instructor, "to prepare young women to be courteous, self-assured and proficient secretaries . . . to meet the demand for well-trained secretaries on the Peninsula," is open daily from 9:00 to 3:00 o'clock, with individual students proceeding at their own pace.

Mrs. Kramer's husband is an architect with the firm of Burde, Shaw and Kearns in Carmel. Retired after being employed for a number of years on the staff of the Cypress Point Club, Mr. Goecker made his home at Castro Lane and Guadalupe Streets in Carmel.

Margaret Jones

Funeral services were held Friday for Mrs. Margaret Harlow Jones, a resident of Carmel for the past three years. Mrs. Jones died Thursday in a Salinas hospital.

Wife of the late Humphrey W. Jones, Mrs. Jones was a native of Kingman, Kansas, where she was born April 23, 1891. She lived in Carmel with a friend, Mrs. William H. Hales, at 70 Ribera Road.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Jane E. Giza of Falls Church, Virginia; a son, Sergeant Humphrey W. Jones, Jr., stationed in Germany, and six grandchildren.

The rites Friday afternoon were held in the Paul Funeral Chapel with the Reverend Bernard N. Lovgren of St. John's Chapel officiating. Burial was to follow in Mt. Moriah Cemetery, Kansas City, Missouri.

Robert Goecker

A long-time resident of Carmel, Robert Herman Goecker, died Tuesday morning in a Peninsula hospital after an extended illness.

Mr. Goecker was 74, a native of Germany, and a resident of Carmel for the past 37 years. He was born in Orsurt on December 12, 1887.

Retired after being employed for a number of years on the staff of the Cypress Point Club, Mr. Goecker made his home at Castro Lane and Guadalupe Streets in Carmel.

Surviving Mr. Goecker are Mrs. Marie Goecker, his wife, of Carmel Plaza, Free Parking MA 4-8413

mel, and several nieces and nephews, all of Germany.

Services were held this morning in Monterey, with the Reverend James R. Spaid of St. Timothy Lutheran Church of Monterey officiating. Inurnment will follow in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove.

CEREBRAL PALSY DINNER

The Central Coast tri-county affiliate of United Cerebral Palsy, Inc., will hold its annual dinner meeting tomorrow, 7:00 o'clock, at the Spindrift Restaurant in Monterey. Speaker will be Justin Johnson, supervisor of community and public affairs for the Hughes Aircraft Company in Los Angeles. His topic will be The Handicapped Can Be Hired.

All interested persons are invited to attend. Employers are recommended to come and learn from Mr. Johnson's wide experience what real values can be obtained from employing the handicapped worker.

Reservations may be made by telephoning FR 5-0643 or FR 2-1328.

Robinson Jeffers

(Continued from Page One) down through the pines and sea-fogs on Carmel Bay, it was evident that we had come without knowing it to our inevitable place." He also wrote, "Only three houses could be seen from the Carmel beach when we first walked there."

He and Mrs. Jeffers lived in a cottage in Carmel while Tor House was being built. Robinson Jeffers helped masons shift and place the wave-worn granite boulders which form the walls of the house. Later, alone, he made additions to Tor House and built Hawk Tower of similar stones. He also planted 2,000 saplings on his land fronting the ocean along Scenic Drive. Many of these, now trees, shelter Tor House and frame Hawk Tower.

Before coming to Carmel, Robinson Jeffers had a varied life. He attended schools in Pennsylvania, Switzerland and Germany; studied at Pittsburgh University and Occidental College; did postgraduate work in medicine at the University of Southern California, in forestry, law and zoology at the University of Washington; spent a brief time at the University of Zurich. He won the wrestling championship of USC, also was a distance runner and swimmer. He was a member of Sigma Chi and Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity, during his college years. He enjoyed exploring mountains in Europe and California on foot, also canoeing on lakes.

He was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on January 10, 1887. At the age of five he could read Greek, taught him by his father, Dr. William Hamilton Jeffers, a distinguished theologian and professor of Old Testament literature at the Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh.

By the time he entered the University of Pittsburgh in 1902 as a sophomore, at the age of 15, he could also speak Italian, French and German learned during his years abroad.

In 1903 he transferred as a junior to Occidental College when his parents moved to Pasadena. He became a part of the life of his class, also the student body, and was editor of an Occidental student publication and contributed verses steeped in Biblical and classical Greek lore. He graduated from Occidental in 1905 at the age of 18, as a distinguished student of Biblical literature.

The next year he enrolled in graduate school at the University of Southern California with the intention of obtaining a master's degree in letters, and met Una Call Kuster, a fellow student, who seven years later was to become his wife.

In 1907 he returned to Europe to study at the University of Zurich, but dissatisfied with the curriculum, came back to Los Angeles and, after pre-medical studies, entered the College of Medicine at USC. He withdrew from USC in 1910 to devote himself to literature, but when his parents moved to Seattle, he went with them and took courses in the School of Forestry at the University of Washington until 1911, then returned to California, lived in Hermosa Beach and wrote poetry.

In 1912 he published his first book, a collection of 33 poems called Flags and Apples, then re-entered the University of Washington and continued his forestry studies, also took courses in law and zoology.

On August 2, 1913, he was married to Una Call following her divorce. They planned to live in Europe but were prevented by the outbreak of World War I and instead came to Carmel.

In 1916 Robinson Jeffers published his second volume of verse, Carmel Poems, which elicited two brief reviews and went out of print.

Eight years passed before his next book, Tamar and Other Poems, was published at the author's expense. The following year it was reissued by a New York publishing house under the title

Roan Stallion, Tamar and Other Poems. This volume contained a long dramatic poem, Tower Beyond Tragedy, besides the realistic poetic narratives of coastal ranch folk below Carmel and lyrical poems.

Three years later Robinson Jeffers published The Women of Point Sur, a narrative poem of terror and beauty. Also in 1927, some 15 of his poems appeared in A Miscellany of American Poetry which also included, among others the verse of Robert Frost, Carl Sandburg, Archibald MacLeish and Edna St. Vincent Millay.

The following year three volumes of Jeffers' poetry, An Artist, Cawdor and Other Poems and a collection of 16 poems, were issued by different publishers.

Dear Judas appeared in 1929. Two years after this Descent To The Dead was published, followed in 1932 by Thurso's Landing. Solstice was published in 1933; Such Counsels You Gave Me in 1937. In 1938, a volume of Jeffers' Selected Poetry, appeared in print. Hungerfield, his fifteenth volume issued by Random House, was published in 1953; Themes In My Poems was printed in a limited private edition in 1956.

In recent years Robinson Jeffers' work was translated into German and Czechoslovakian. Published in Europe it immediately gained wide acclaim. Italian translations will appear in print soon. His dramas have also been produced in Germany.

Honored first by the Book Club of California in 1937, Robinson Jeffers received the Borestone Mountain Poetry Award in 1955; the Academy of American Poets Award in 1958; last year the Memorial Award of the National Poetry Society. He was granted an honorary D. Litt. degree from Occidental College in 1939; and another honorary degree from USC.

He gave the first reading at the Library of Congress in 1941 and repeated this reading in Carmel at Sunset School.

Robinson Jeffers belonged to the National Institute of Arts and the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

He is survived by twin sons, Donnan Call Jeffers of Carmel, and Garth Sherwood Jeffers of Susanville; 12 grandchildren, Candida and Judith Jeffers of London, England; Lindsay, Una, Donnan and Robinson Jeffers of Carmel; Maeve, Diana, Morna, Robinson, Stuart and Garth Jeffers of Susanville; also a brother, Dr. Hamilton Jeffers of Carmel Highlands, noted astronomer. His wife Una, died in 1950.

According to his wishes, there were no funeral services for Robinson Jeffers. Private cremation took place in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Police Round Up
Teenagers Involved
In Petty Thievery

A "ring" of suspected petty thieves, which included seven Carmel boys 13 years old and one 14-year-old, were questioned at their homes by Carmel police officers this week, following recovery of dozens of shoplifted items and some 100 emblems detached from parked cars. Among the recovered items were five copies of the novel, Tropic of Cancer, by Henry Miller.

The petty thefts, which apparently have been carried out over several months, came to light Tuesday when James Womble, operator of an Ocean Avenue pharmacy, turned over to the police two youths whom he had caught stealing hair tonic in his store.

They implicated another boy, and the three in turn implicated several more. In all cases parents of the youngsters agreed to return the items to the owners and make restitution where necessary. Possible action from juvenile authorities is pending, police said.

In addition to the car emblems and novels, all paperback editions of the Miller book, police listed such things as some 15 records taken from the Browse Around music store, a dozen key chains from Spruce Reitz, flash lights, a number of toys from Carmel Toy Store, a can of oil, three cans of lighter fluid, a pair of leather gloves, salami, and numerous pens, pencils and other small items. Without exception, the books came from Ted's Liquor Store.

Diminutive Albie Pearson, a smooth-swinger from the Los Angeles Angels, helped his pro-partner, Bob McAllister, 44 strokes on their win in the pro-amateur division. McAllister earned $3,000 as the pro-am winner, and picked up $91.43 in the pro division. The teams of Dow Finsterwald-Fred Kammer and Stan Leonard-Dr. Bud Taylor finished in a deadlock for second place in the pro-am, both notching 261 scores for the 72 holes.

Next stop for the touring pros will be the $55,000 Lucky International at San Francisco's Harding Park. The 72-hole tournament starts today and, the elements willing, will finish on Sunday.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

The third of this season's Monterey Peninsula Concert Association events Tuesday evening at the Pacific Grove Junior High School was a concert by the Clebanoff Strings, a chamber orchestra of 16 players under the energetic conductorship of its founder, Herman Clebanoff. Played with polish and clarity, the program, mostly designed for popular reception, opened with a Mozart symphony in D major that established the players' quality. This was followed by five shorter works including —Turner's Prelude and Dance for Harp and Strings in which Lois Adele Craft delighted the audience with the harp solo. Much humor entered the second part of the program which included Songs from Great Shows, Great Songs of America (in which Shirley Evans contributed a sympathetic cello solo of Stephen Foster's Jeannie With The Light Brown Hair), Songs from Great Operettas, from Great Films, and Great Waltzes. Added was a final encore, and repetition of the traditional Hoedown.

An expert violinist, the conductor played several times with the orchestra as though extemporaneously. While giving Tschaikovsky's None But The Lonely Heart for encore, the orchestra was conducted by the concertmaster, Arthur Tabachnick, whose brilliant violin playing had led the whole ensemble during the evening. Marie was added to Bernstein's West Side Story excerpt, all of which constituted an unusual entertainment.

Students from Carmel High School singing in the 150-voice choir led by Dr. Giovanni Camajani, will be Sue Mason, Diana Farr, Barbara Vincent, Diane Sampson, John Soprano, Jose Fernandez, Carl Burger, Terry Butler, Norman Cotton, and Steve Shore.

A varied program will include orchestral works by Sammartini, Handel, Schubert, and Gliere, and choral compositions by Holst and Copland. The climax of the evening will be Gabrieli's In Ecclesiis, scored for women's voices, brass ensemble and organ; Ernest Tweedy will play the organ in this work.

An admission of 50 cents will be charged to defray the expense of organizing the groups.

Announce Judges For Arena Blanca Poets

Judges for the high school poetry contest, co-sponsored by Arena Blanca chapter, California Federation of Chaparral Poets, and the Carmel Pine Cone, were announced by Mrs. Olivia Young at the chapter's meeting last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Erbit. They are Mrs. R. G. Minarik, Mrs. H. V. Stewart, and Mrs. John Moke, all Arena Blanca chapter members.

At the same meeting, members learned that the City of San Leandro has named a park for their former president, the Reverend Jacob McCartney. The park was dedicated January 10. Mrs. McCartney was guest of honor at the ceremonies.

The program at the chapter meeting included a report on light verse by Miss Alma Anderson, the reading of original poems by Mrs. M. F. Greenwood, and a talk titled Lorca of Spain, by Mrs. Fred Beidleman. Mrs. George Young read Lorca's poetry. Assisting Mrs. Erbit were Mrs. Rollin Wilson and Robert Bunney, members of the refreshment committee.

Countertenor Russell Oberlin Gives Highly Instructive And Richly Rewarding Performance

By EBEN WHITTLESEY

A specialized, highly refined and currently not too widely known form of art occupied the attention of the Carmel Music Society last week. Russell Oberlin, a small redhaired gentleman with a countertenor voice, gave a highly artistic, sensitive and exciting performance. He has polished splendid diction.

Probably the music-hearing world divides readily into three of which was K 380. They were given a smooth, rather pensive reading which is unusual. One missed the characteristic intensity and brilliance of Scarlatti.

The singer returned with two gentle and mellow love songs of Handel and Vivaldi. They were most effective with his light, clear-cut and well-controlled tone.

Following the intermission, a group of songs by Hugo Wolf were sung with deftness and subtlety. All of them, I feel, are far more effective sung by a voice of fuller tone and greater depth. Rachmaninoff was represented by Liliac's and A Little Island, both sung in a convincing brand of Russian, and with considerable dramatic effect.

The final group comprised three folk songs, all brief. Chill Winds lay in too high a range to be pleasant. The sole encore was a repetition of Dear Companions, the last song. Whether one really enjoys this type of voice or not, he must admit to the thorough artistry and painstaking accuracy of this artist. To me the experience was highly instructive; to many it was richly rewarding.

NEW ANTIQUE SHOP

The Golden Eagle, an antique shop recently opened here, is located in a new building on Lincoln Street, south of Ocean Avenue.

The owners, Hiram H. Hurd and James H. House, have transferred their entire stock of decorative antiques and fine arts furnishings from Ohio where they had a thriving business, to Carmel where they prefer to live.

The shop features 18th and 19th century European antiques which the owners hope will particularly appeal to the "discriminating Continental tastes" of Peninsula residents.

A group of English Restoration songs recalled the period when the countertenor was perhaps most popular. Two of these were sung with accompaniment of castanets whose timbre matched that of the singer rather well. The countertenor voice here confers an effect of remoteness in time and scene which agrees well with the quaintness and archaic feeling of the songs themselves. There is a feeling of far away and long ago about this music most effectively captured by the singer.

Douglas Williams at the piano played two Scarlatti sonatas, one

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Chilly weather is made for books and a fire in the fireplace, ours or yours. If you are not lucky enough to have a fireplace in your house, come in and sit by ours, it is yours, too. And books we have in abundance, and they are yours, also. How rich you are.

How often does a father build a business and a reputation which he hopes to pass along to his sons, only to learn that his sons do not want to succeed their father and that they want to strike out for themselves. The difficulties of adjusting to this situation form the backbone of a personal story by and about Charlotte Paul, author of several successful books and hundreds of articles and stories.

The Pauls had two sons whom they hoped would follow them into the business of editing and publishing the Snoqualmie Valley Record. The sons had other ideas. The book about it all is entitled And Four to Grow and it was written by the mother of the family, Charlotte Paul.

The foregoing book is quietly humorous in places, but a similar book entitled Over The Fence Is Out, is funny all the time. It is composed of a series of articles about the children, the relatives, the friends of the Jonathan Rhodes family. Take my advice and don't try to read it aloud. You will laugh so hard your listeners will miss the point of every sally, and what's the good in that? Don't miss Over The Fence Is Out by Jonathan Rhodes.

Now to be serious again, we have Minister and Doctor Meet, by Granger Westberg, who teaches in both the medical and the theological schools at the University of Chicago, and spent many years as a hospital chaplain. This is a book designed to help in the close cooperation between doctor and minister which is the ideal situation in dealing with sickness either in a hospital or at home.

Calvin Rustrum is an authority on the wilderness cabin and its construction, and his book on the subject is well illustrated with pictures and diagrams, plus actual plans for cabins of various sizes. A practical book.

A variously appealing book is Karakoram by Fosco Maraini. It is the story of the successful ascent of Mount Gasherbrum IV, also known as K3. This book will be of interest to readers who love good writing, to the hearthside mountain climber, to the photographer, and also to the reader interested in the psychology of men living together with themselves and with constant danger. The photographs which illustrate the book are really superb, and their reproduction was done in Italy. The text of the book was printed in Great Britain, the whole thing being put together in this country by the Viking Press. Fine book making and fascinating story here.

American foreign policy, as viewed through the aims and actions of the various Secretaries of State in this century, is the material for a book by Norman Graeber. The book is entitled An Uncertain Tradition. Fourteen secretaries in this century, each one discussed by a different author, and the editing done by Dr. Graeber, who is a professor at the University of Illinois. This is meaty reading for the person genuinely interested in the subject.

Letters To The Editor

(Editor's Note: Following is a letter from Nelson T. Nowell, now in Thornton, a Pine Cone subscriber who owns two houses in Carmel, one on Scenic Drive, and the other on San Antonio Street, wrote to the editor of the New York Herald Tribune after reading a nationally syndicated article on Carmel written by Horace Sutton, upon which we commented editorially last week.)

January 18, 1962

The New York Herald Tribune
New York, New York.
Attention: Editor

Dear Sir:

Please let me make a few observations on an article written by Horace Sutton, about a small picturesque town in California that is very dear to my heart. This appeared in a recent edition of your paper under Resorts and Travel.

To say that he is a very prejudiced, misinformed, and inaccurate reporter would be very generous. It seems it would have been in far better taste had he done a little more research and talked to some of the people who could give him the facts. I note with great interest he mentioned several times the Pine Tree Inn, of which there is no such hostelry; it happens to be The Pine Inn and a very popular hotel with people from all parts of the world. Another observation is that there is no Derek Payne's Haberdashery; the error being in this paragraph that it is Derek Rayne's and it is not located along a brick sidewalk, but rather on a very large sidewalk on the main street of Carmel called Ocean Avenue. Furthermore, none of the salesmen wear screaming red blazers. He speaks as if it is a great loss to be unadorned by TV antennas; but we, who live in Carmel, think quite a contrary blessing.

I suppose we all must live with criticism of our home towns; however, I think this as a syndicated article does Carmel a very great injustice. People come from all over the world to admire our village and its scenery and weather; they come again and again, year after year, and some come to stay as permanent residents. My wife and I have done extensive traveling for 30 years and have found no place as yet that we like as well.

I hope you take this letter in the spirit in which it is given.

Sincerely,
N. T. Nowell.

Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone:

The lectures given by Milton Mayer at Monterey Peninsula College and re-broadcast on Radio Station KRML were most distressing to me and I would like the opportunity to refute some of his statements.

As a now American citizen, formerly of Czechoslovakia, I can appreciate freedom of the press, and I thank you very much for the chance to express freely my opinion — which is quite impossible in Communist-dominated countries of which Mr. Mayer speaks with such enthusiasm.

There is a definite danger for my family still living in Czechoslovakia, so I am requesting that you withhold my name from the following statement.

To: Mr. Milton Mayer, Carmel writer.

Of course you did not meet in Communist Czechoslovakia anyone who was ardently interested in forcibly overthrowing the government, or anyone wanting to be liberated by American guns—or German guns, as you said.

You were a guest of an organization which is permitted to exist by Communist government; then, it must be a Communist organization. No wonder the people with such interests did not talk to you. They realized they would end the same way as if they had talked about it to the Communist police.

Yes, the price of a hospital bed is zero. The price of a surgical operation is zero. The price of medicine is zero. The price of education is zero. But for whom? You, most probably, intentionally failed to mention that these benefits are available only to politically reliable students cleared by a special Communist committee and who pass a special Marx-Leninism course.

If you really were living in Czechoslovakia for six months, you had the opportunity to see the long lines waiting for their ration of bread, fruits, vegetables, etc. Or did you think the people were waiting to see some Communist personality? This is the "progress" after 13 years of Communist economy.

So you see, standards in Czechoslovakia are not improving, Mr. Mayer. Believe me, over there it is not a battle for bread. It is a battle for FREEDOM.

I sincerely hope your lecture tour here in the United States will be cut short. Your lectures, such as those at Monterey Peninsula College and on Radio KRML, are based on pro-Communist thinking and intentional distortion of facts.

(Editor's note: Although it is against Pine Cone policy to print unsigned letters, we are making an exception in this case for the reasons stated above. The writer gave both his name and address to us.)

Editor,

The Carmel Pine Cone:

Since Mr. R. Rolleston West has had the privilege of presenting the negative side of the argument for the enforcement of safety regulations, I hope I may be permitted to present the positive side. Here in Carmel where Chief Klaumann's crew operates, those of us who drive motor vehicles, or act in the capacity of pedestrians, as we all must do at times, have reason to be grateful and thankful for the conscientious efforts and continued evidence of the presence of the Carmel police force.

In view of Mr. West's expressed feeling about the slipshod and compromising "rolling stop" at crossings which show a stop sign, and his feeling that there should be no restriction on parking, thus permitting inconsiderate folks to "hog" the available parking spaces with utter disregard for the rights of others, I wonder whether Mr. West was the driver of the car that "rolled" through the intersection of Junipero and Camino Del Monte one afternoon when school was not in session and no "school" signpost was out, and narrowly missed the youngster who came out of the brush, crossing from east to west, presumably feeling safe because he had been taught that the stop sign at the crossing would cause cars to stop before entering the intersection. Of course, he would not have known about Mr. West's feeling about the "rolling stop" and the ignoring of the stop sign as such. The squeal of brakes was the youngster's first intimation that he could be in trouble, and that was one time that Chief Klaumann's boys were not "on post" there as they often are.

I have a feeling that if a poll were taken of car operators who have occasion, as I have, of driving Carmel's streets seven days a week, that Mr. West would find himself somewhat lonesome and distinctly in the minority. Given the choice between strict enforcement of safety and traffic regulations, and a loose, slipshod, compromising attitude of taking advantage of situations which apparently to the quick glance suggest no need for such restrictions at the moment, I believe most folks would choose the former. I know I would, and do, and I know of few people who have driven more miles over the years than I have in all parts of the country over all kinds of terrain in all kinds of weather.

I'd rather take a ticket, if I at any time fail to abide by the rules, than to do away with the law enforcement protective devices that the Carmel police utilize for the benefit, not of themselves, or their record of traffic tickets, but for the benefit of all of us who operate motor vehicles or use the streets and crosswalks as pedestrians.

Sincerely,
A. A. Lubersky.

January 21, 1962

Editor,

Carmel Pine Cone:

Last week the Carmel River School P-TA sent home a bulletin, Identification Tags, advising parents to purchase bracelets or necklaces to identify diabetic or heart attack victims. There was no mention of nuclear attack victims, although this obviously was the purpose and intent of this bulletin.

I object to this disguise, and the creation of an unjust situation for those few children whose parents can see the absurdity of this measure.

I more strongly object to the role the P-TA has assumed in civilian defense. There is no actual civilian defense for nuclear attack. When we accept bomb shelters and identification tags we are admitting defeat rather than working constructively for peace.

Sincerely,
Carla Stewart.

HUCKLEBERRY MEADOW

*Now huckleberry branches bent by tardy snow are lifting;
the pine-rimmed slope hums live with sun and a breeze from southward drifting.*

So would we find it year by year when, spring-wet pastures crossing, we cleared the last fence and climbed on to the high wood winter-tossing.

Chill to our feet, late-fallen snow made mystery of shadow till young trees ringed a lake of light, and we came on our mountain meadow.

There, etched across the tawny slope, green-lacquered leaves upturning, the huckleberry bushes flared new twig-tips, copper-burning.

*Our year's content we kindled here;
and now these budding embers stir happiness to flame for me in the meadow love remembers.*

Put scouting birds and stealthy buds to shame.
No gale could stop her, only block and slow
Her passing years. An expert in the snow
Her fingers found the white bells on the green, Minature chimes, where soot and ice had been,
Rising in prayers, not to be set aside
Their small petitions hurriedly denied.*

*Bell notes rang out like coins that fed
Her funds for gardens so that joy might spread.
She visioned traffic as a well-built wall
About street gardens, beautiful for all
The seasons round, where snowdrops could erase Winter and sorrow in each island space.*

Studio's Send Me No Flowers Continuous Siege Of Mirth With Frolicsome, Capable Cast

Appearing in a lighter-than-air situation comedy called Send Me No Flowers, which opened Friday at the Studio Theatre, is a frolicsome and capable cast composed of veterans on this particular Carmel stage and some newcomers.

With nothing much to work with but the farcical froth provided by writers Norman Barasch and Carroll Moore, Dick Vreeland who, as the victim of imaginary illness, was playing his first lengthy role on the Peninsula, nevertheless brought down the house and kept it down, reduced to a nearly continuous siege of mirth.

Dorothy Weston, playing Judy, the mercurial spouse of George Kimball, the man who in error believes he is dying of a heart ailment, complements Dick's performance ably with her rapid-fire reactions called for when she first ignores, then sympathizes with, and eventually sees herself beguiled by her husband's galaxy of symptoms.

Bolstering the plot and giving the cast further exercise of its comic talents was a series of blue-lit, reverse Walter Mitty-type sequences out of the heads of George and Judy, who are both beset by the phantasmas of anxiety, however his illness and forthcoming demise, she over his suspected infidelity.

Just about tops in the supporting cast for this pair was George Marshall as Arnold Nash, the sympathetic neighbor, who as a premature chief mourner for George, tipples his way through an excellent role.

Applause also must go (and certainly did go Friday night) to Jere Jacobs as the carefree Dr. Morrissey; Paul Holcomb as Vito, the lecherously healthy delivery boy; Irving Stone as Bert Power, Judy's old sweetheart, and Elroy Naczek as the cemetery plot salesman who is spilling over with joie de vivre.

Completing this happy combination of players were Pop Smith and a "George Spelvin," playing passers-by in the day-dream scenes and Anita Tonn as two different "other women," visualized and recalled by Judy and her husband in two diverting bedroom sketches.

Barbara Horder West has again directed a Studio success, with John Halloran, Betty Hackett and Royden Martin as producers. Martin and Halloran joined R. Rolleston West in the stage design and construction of the airy, tasteful living quarters in Suburbia, setting for the three acts of Send Me No Flowers.

Lighting was by Reed Putnam and Jerry Zellhoefer, stage managing by Jane Magee.

For everyone who loves laughter this play is worth seeing, a comedy made truly comic by the artfulness of a very good cast.

The Studio curtain rises at 8:30 o'clock Friday and Saturday evenings on Send Me No Flowers, this month and next.

Peninsula Art

The annual meeting of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts will be held tonight at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club. A no-host cocktail party at 6:00 o'clock will precede the dinner at 7:30. Any members who cannot attend the dinner are asked to be at the annual meeting which will start at 9:00 o'clock. There will be no entry charge at the Pebble Beach gates for this event.

Nominated as A.F.A. directors for the coming year are Arnold Bowhay, Jr., Mrs. Thomas Bunn, Barbara J. Burdick, Mrs. Green Chapman, Roderick L. Dewart, Sophie E. Harpe, Boyd W. Harwood, Leonard G. Heller, Frederick Rider, Mrs. Charles Simpson, Mrs. Rama D. Stearns, Victor S. Velissaratos, Mrs. Julian von Meier, Rear Admiral Charles W. Wheelock (USN Ret.), and Mrs. Al Wiseman.

Members of the nominating committee were Dr. Ernest J. Jaqua, chairman, Mrs. Robert Aurner, Miss Helen L. Denecke, Leslie Emery, Mrs. Douglas MacGregor and Mrs. John E. Montague.

Mrs. Douglas MacGregor, new president of the Carmel Art Association, has recently appointed the following committee chairmen: Gene Baker, finance; Joe Feuerborn, hanging; Charles Thomas, policy; Joe Ataide, membership; Sam Harris, house garden and library; Robert Davey, hanging one-man shows; Frank Dorn, entertainment; Jane Buffington, publicity.

Other officers who will serve with Mrs. MacGregor this year are Charles Thomas, first vice president; Gene Baker, second vice president; Rip Matteson, third vice president; Edith Dinkin, recording secretary; Jane Buffington, corresponding secretary; Gene Baker, treasurer.

New members of the board of directors for the coming year are manager of their business, they announced this week.

The Scardiglis say the change will give Remo more time for design projects. Lyle, a Peninsula resident for the past three and a half years, attended Monterey Peninsula College and has been working in Studio 7 for three years.

He has done research and collecting in the fields of mineralogy and gemology, and is interested in jewelry making. He and Mrs. Whittier, the former Katherine Phillips of Pacific Grove, have one son, Kris, and are expecting another child.

Frank Dorn, Ethlyn Crouch, Harold Landaker, Sam Harris, Robert Davey and Jeannette Lewis.

Continuing board members are Joe Ataide, Marjorie Doolittle and Joe Feuerborn.

Announced last week were current winners of the January painting exhibit at the Carmel Craft Studios. First prize was awarded to Buzz Harwood of Carmel for his oil, Window Scene. Paul Smith of Monterey Peninsula College took second place with an abstract oil, In the Beginning.

Judges were Feg Murray, Gary Hudson, and William van der Sluis.

Ruth Velissaratos of Carmel is one of nine California photographers whose prints are included in the second Photography Exhibition in Fine Arts which will be shown at the M. H. de Young Memorial Museum in San Francisco from February 3-25. Wynn Bullock of Monterey is also among this group.

The entire show contains 176 contemporary photographs representing the work of 129 professional and amateur photographers. These photographs were selected from 800 color and monochromes by a jury of 12 representatives from the fine arts field, almost all associated with art museums, after prints were previously screened by other juries.

The Professional Photographers of America, the American Society of Magazine Photographers, and the Photographic Society of America collaborated in an extensive nationwide search to discover photographs for this show, which is the second sponsored by the Saturday Review, and will be shown in museums throughout the United States.

An exhibition of etchings by Albert Durer, from the private collection of Dr. William Fitzhugh, will open Monday at the American Federation of Arts headquarters on Lincoln Street.

Sunday, members of the Monterey Peninsula A.F.A. chapter will be guests at a preview of the show from 4:00-6:00 o'clock.

Public hours for the show are 11:00-5:00 o'clock Monday through Sunday.

New at the M. H. de Young Museum in San Francisco this month is an exhibition of the paintings of Carmel artist Jeanne d'Orge. Forty-seven pictures are included in the show, which will run through February 14.

Miss d'Orge, who in private life is Mrs. Carl Cherry, founder of the Cherry Memorial Foundation in Carmel, has had a long career as poet, playwright and author of children's books, as well as a painter. The artist was the widow of Alfred Burton, retired dean of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, when in 1930 she married inventor Carl Cherry. Mr. Cherry died in 1946.

Mrs. Cherry is the mother of Virginia Lee Burton, illustrator and author of children's books; Christine Burton, a dancer; and Ross Burton, a silversmith. They all grew up in Carmel, but now live in the East.

Dramatic Reading Next Presentation At Circle Theatre

The Golden Bough Circle Theatre will vary its winter fare next month with a dramatic reading entitled Pictures in the Hallway. Adapted by the New York actor, Paul Shyre, from an autobiographical novel of the same name, it recounts in highly dramatic form the formative years of Ireland's great playwright, Sean O'Casey. Its subject matter has much in common with that of last year's Circle Theatre hit, Look Homeward, Angel, which dealt with the adolescence of another great writer, Thomas Wolfe.

In treatment, however, Pictures in the Hallway is unique, or was, at the time of its New York production six years ago. Sequels to it, and imitations of its style, inevitably followed close on its spectacular success. A blend of dialogue, narration, poetry and song, accompanied throughout by an on-stage flute, it calls upon seven actors to create 27 distinct characters in swift transition from scene to scene of O'Casey's eventful youth.

Pictures in the Hallway is scheduled to open on February 2, and to continue its run on weekends only through March 4.

Art On The Peninsula—

(Continued from Page Seven) paintings and collages by Alex Gonzales, paintings by Ricardo Carrillo and Franc Snyder. An invitational champagne preview of the show will be given on Saturday evening.

The work of Alex Gonzales will be shown in the main gallery. Born in Arizona, he is a graduate of the California School of Fine Arts, has a B.A. degree from the California College of Arts and Crafts and a master's degree from San Francisco State College. One-man shows of his work have been exhibited at the Mercury Gallery in San Francisco, Artist in Residence Gallery in Fort Bragg, and Designer and Craftsmen Gallery in San Francisco. He will exhibit 12 oils and 12 collages in his show at Gamble's Galleries.

Ricardo Carrillo's nine paintings will be on display in the center gallery. He is a relative of Leo Carrillo. Born in San Francisco, he attended school in San Leandro; graduated from San Jose State College in 1950 as an honor student in the field of art.

Ricardo Carrillo is a member of the national art honor society, Delta Phi Delta. He has exhibited at the San Francisco World's Fair, in a college collection which toured the United States, and in a previous show at the Gamble Galleries.

A veteran of World War II and the Korean War, he rose from the rank of private to be an officer, and at present is an officer in the Air Force Reserves. He and his wife, Marilyn, have three children.

Emil White of Big Sur remarks Francis Snyder "has background and previous experiences too varied and numerous to mention," and uses the technique of undercoating and overglazing in his pictorially painstaking pictures, 12 of which will be shown in the center gallery in the forthcoming show at Gamble's Galleries.

INQUIRY FORUM TOPIC

The Primacy of Peter will be the topic of the Inquiry Forum at Carmel Mission Chapel on Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock. Father Anthony, Paulist Missionary, will discuss the selection of Peter as the head of the early Church, and how the long list of Roman Pontiffs has endured through the centuries.

The lectures and films are designed for persons who wish to investigate the teachings of Christianity, for persons married to Catholics or about to marry a Catholic, and the baptized who have never received their first confession or first communion.

O'Malleys Back From Panama

Just in time for Carmel's snow storm and big freeze, the Bill O'Malleys returned this week from a month's voyage to Panama and back, a trip which has become a family tradition. Taking a Norwegian freighter both ways (another tradition; Mrs. O'Malley is Norwegian), they spent the intervening week at a hotel in the residential district of Panama City.

The O'Malleys went through the canal both going and coming. Mrs. O'Malley tells of driving by taxi cab from Panama City to Cristobal on two hour's notice in order to board their California bound boat for a 2:00 o'clock in the morning departure. They had been waiting for instructions since 8:00 o'clock the morning before, but apparently freighter passengers are often kept in the dark about sailing schedules until the last minute. Determined not to miss the canal trip—"always a thrill, even on your 14th time through"—the O'Malleys made their midnight dash across the isthmus.

Bill O'Malley, who recently sent a new Little Nuns book off to the publishers, spent much of his holiday working on cartoons. Mrs. O'Malley says she was "busy being lazy," and on the return trip was delighted to have as a fellow passenger the Norwegian wife of the ship's captain and, therefore, the chance for conversation in her native language.

"The ocean was calm all the way, the weather in Panama breezy and delightful, the food on the boats wonderful—unfortunately!" she reports.

An honorable mention in the Saturday Review 1961 Photo Prize Winners has been won by James A. Moody of Carmel. He submitted a kodachrome taken from the top of Mont-Saint-Michel, France, as the sun was rising, and shadow was cast by the whole hill and town on the sand below. Mr. and Mrs. Moody were on their round-the-world wanderings last year.

Douglas Smith Is Engaged

Dr. and Mrs. Emil S. Von Desonneck of San Francisco have announced the engagement of their daughter Karen to Douglas Wemp Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith of Carmel. They will be married June 24 in the Memorial Chapel at Stanford University.

Karen, a graduate of Saint Rose Academy in San Francisco, was a member of the class of 1961 at Stanford, and is now doing graduate work in botany at the University of Illinois. Her sister and brother are Kristin and Kurt Emil Von Desonneck. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. M. J. McFadon of Carmel.

Douglas, a graduate of Cass Technical High School in Detroit and of Stanford University in 1960, is doing graduate work in physics at the University of Illinois. His father is a member of the American Institute of Architects here in Carmel, and he has one brother, James Bellaire Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde J. Smith of Altadena, and Mrs. Vira B. Wemp of Los Angeles are his grandparents.

Berkeley Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Merritt of Berkeley, and their son, Mark, are guests this week of Mrs. Valentine Miller.

Mr. Merritt, a physicist with the Shell research laboratories in Emeryville, is attending the Western Spectroscopy conference at Asilomar.

Senator Foiled, But Not Nancy

When Nancy Farr, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Fred Farr, asked a group of Sunset School eighth graders on a planned expedition down to Big Creek on Saturday to celebrate her 14th birthday, no one suspected that there would be complications.

The guests were to be picked up at Sunset School Saturday morning by Senator Farr and Nancy in a weapons carrier from a Monterey garage. Unfortunately, the weapons carrier needed some work done on it first, and after two hours of this the steering wheel was found to be broken.

"So," relates Nancy, "they gave Dad a jeep instead and showed him how to drive it." So far, so good, but after the patient (or impatient) guests were picked up at school, and the expedition stopped at a filling station for gas, the jeep wouldn't start. Dead battery. The station attendant got the jeep going. Once more the expedition started off. Slowing for a turn, the engine stopped. Battery gone again.

At this point a change of plans was indicated. Everyone got out and pushed the jeep down to the Farr's house on Carmelo Street where it came to a final stop. It was then decided that the beach was a more practical destination than Big Creek. So Nancy and her guests picnicked on the beach, and later went back to the Farris' for present-opening and a delicious sukiyaki prepared by the chef-Senator himself.

Taking part in all this were Joanne and Colleen Coggins, Susie Draper, Penny Nesbitt, Barbara Pearson, Joanne Thompson, Kim Roberts, David Marvin, Bob Fonseca, Steve Grinstine, John Martin, John Montmorency, and, of course, Nancy herself. Unable to attend was Craig Cunningham; Mrs. Farr because of minor illness had to miss the party, too.

And the jeep? Well, the garage sent a man over the next morning to tow it back to Monterey.

Gene Bartlett, Jr., in Japan

A2C Gene R. Bartlett, Jr., son of Captain Gene R. Bartlett (USA ret.) and Mrs. Bartlett, proprietors of Carmel's Donut Den, is stationed with the Air Force in Tokyo as administrative clerk in the postal department of Green Park, one of the housing areas for Air Force personnel. This is a return "tour" in Japan for Gene, who was at school there from 1952-54 when his father was stationed at Camp Drake as company commander of a Signal Corps unit.

Mrs. Bartlett describes Green Park as "an amazing place." It was originally a Japanese aircraft hangar, later converted into U.S. Air Force living quarters: a complete town under one roof, including six floors of apartments.

Donna Wins Contest

Donna Durein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Durein, made the highest score in a recent test given Carmel High School seniors taking home economics. This makes her the winner from Carmel High in the 1962 Betty Crocker search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Donna is now eligible to compete in the next round of the contest, which will be on a state level. The state winners receive college scholarships and then compete nationally for the title of 1962 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Tournament Visitors

Samuel Haskins, brother of Mrs. Fred Farr, and Mrs. Haskins, of St. Malo, California, came to Carmel for the Crosby Tournament. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Murphy were also here for the golfing weekend. Mrs. Murphy is former Carmelite Lynn Strasburger, the daughter of Mrs. Arthur Strasburger, Sr., of Carmel Point.

The Bob Smiths Off to Mexico

Lili and Bob Smith are flying down to Mazatlan for a fortnight's vacation in the little sea coast town of Puerto Vallarta, where they will be staying in the house of San Francisco industrial designer Walter Landor. Charles Miller III and Leonard Hammond, friends of the Smiths from Southern California, will join them there, as will William Morgan, a friend from Mexico City.

This is the Smiths' third visit to Puerto Vallarta, although it's their first trip there in three years. Inaccessible to ordinary vehicles (but with an airport), this small paradise is becoming "discovered," and now even has electricity. "That means the telephone will be next," says Lili, "but like all essentially beautiful spots it can't really be spoiled." The Smiths and the Herb Vials were among Puerto Vallarta's earliest discoverers from Carmel. Other Carmelites planning to vacation there within the next couple of weeks are Frank Lloyd, Louis Conlan and Stuyvesant Fish.

Fifth Daughter for McCreerys

Mr. and Mrs. Lew McCreery became the parents of a daughter, Mary Margaret, at Monterey Hospital on January 18. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. P. A. McCreery of Carmel, and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Whittaker of San Jose.

Mary Margaret joins a quartet of sisters at home, Kathleen, six, Diane, five, four-year-old Susan, and Elizabeth, who is one and a half.

Mrs. Cullumbine Visits Farris

Mrs. Harry Cullumbine of Philadelphia, who is remembered by her Carmel friends as Mary Sullivan, when she was associated with a local real estate firm several years ago, is a visitor at the home of Senator and Mrs. Fred Farr. Mrs. Cullumbine's son John, a former Sunset School pupil, is now a senior at Taft School in New England and will attend Yale University next year.

Youth Center Gross Receipts For Crosby Food Sales $5,614

Carmel Youth Center board members learned at a meeting yesterday evening that the center realized gross receipts of $5,614 from its concessions manned by center members at the Crosby Tournament last weekend.

No net figure is yet available on the project, which the center board said gained the full cooperation of mothers and other interested adults as well as the emergency help of Carmel High School which freed members from classes Monday, after the tourney was cancelled Sunday.

The new trailers also came in for compliments. "We couldn't have done without them in the bad weather," James Buffington, president of the Center board, said.

Discussed at the same meeting was the finalizing of the Center budget and recommendations on constitutional changes. These include suggestions that school board and city council members of the center board be given ex-officio status rather than voting power, thus eliminating possible conflict-of-interest problems, that the board secretary be made a voting member of the board, that the board have five members-at-large instead of two, and other minor changes.

Republican Women Meet Wednesday To Hear Captain Morse

The Carmel Republican Women's Club will hold a general meeting Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the conference room of La Playa Hotel.

The speaker will be Captain J. H. Morse, Jr., of Aerojet-General Corporation's corporate long range planning division.

Captain Morse's topic will be Positive Action For Americans of Any Party. For the last ten years he has concentrated upon nuclear weapons planning and national-international policy formulation in the National Security Council as Special Assistant to the Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. He has lectured extensively on such subjects to audiences abroad and in this country.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting, with Mrs. C. Mark Thomas and Mrs. Mark Raggett presiding at the tables.

Mrs. Thomas K. Perry is chairman of the hostess committee. Those assisting her will be Mrs. Raymond Brownell, Mrs. Rodney Mason, Mrs. Arthur Dresser, Mrs. Fenton Grigsby, Mrs. Edward McMurtry, Mrs. Samuel Moore, Mrs. Douglas MacGregor, Mrs. Richard Collins, and Mrs. Jimmy Hatio.

All Republican women are urged to attend this meeting.

Guide Dog Fashion Show

February 13 has been set as the date for this year's fashion show, which is annually sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula branch of Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc. The theme for the show, which will have a familiar ring to all women is I Haven't A Thing To Wear.

The fashion show and tea will be in the Lounge at Del Monte Lodge and feature a dazzling array of the latest in spring fashions. In addition, a training film explaining the work of the Guide Dog organization will be shown.

A new or renewed membership in the Monterey Peninsula branch of the Guide Dog organization will suffice as admission to this benefit affair. All funds raised by this group, including proceeds from the forthcoming fashion show, are used to equip man-dog training units.

Co-ordinating activities for this benefit have been assigned to a number of local women by the general co-chairmen, Miss Helen Heavey and Mrs. James Parks. Mrs. Patrick Hudgins and Mrs. Olney Girard have been selected as tea chairmen for the occasion. Mrs. Miriam Godwin will be in charge of decorations. Acting as fashion chairman for the show will be Mrs. Thomas N. Bland, who will be assisted by Mrs. H. Leland Weber and Mrs. Mason Foote.

Jim Hopper In Carmel

Dr. James Hopper, a member of the staff of the University of California Hospital in San Francisco, is in Carmel this week for the meetings of the Western Society for Clinical Research. Mrs. Hopper will be down from their home in Sausalito to join him here for the weekend.

Jim grew up here. His father was the late James Hopper, and his sister, Jane, is Mrs. Herb Vial of Carmel Point.

The Hoppers came back to California in September after a year abroad, spent mostly in Paris where Dr. Hopper was engaged in research on kidney transplants at L'Hopital Necker. Their four children, Jimmie, Steven, Margo and Sean, were with them abroad, and the three older ones did extensive traveling on their own.

Occidental College Choir Concert Sat. Jeffers Memorial

The program to be presented Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium by the Occidental College Glee Clubs will take the form of a memorial to the late Robinson Jeffers, who was an alumnus of the school.

Sponsored by the Carmel Kiwanis Club as a benefit performance for the club's scholarship fund, the program will include a wide variety of choral numbers performed by the glee clubs, which are on their 34th annual concert tour, and directed by Dr. Howard Swan of the Occidental faculty, who is himself a recognized authority in the field of voice production and choral technique.

Tickets, at $1.00 for adults and $.50 for children, are on sale at the Central Box Office and the Browse-Around Music Store in Carmel, and at the Airway Market, Carmel Valley.

Today only vestiges of snow remain on the highest hilltops. Sunday's three-inch snowfall, heavier than any ever remembered in Carmel, caused postponement until Monday of the Crosby Golf Tournament, but provided untold delight for children who gambled on the slopes of hills, fought snowball battles along Carmel streets, built snowmen in gardens. Adults joined in the fun, too, as snowflakes fell. Cars coming back from upper Carmel Valley Sunday afternoon were adorned with snowmen figureheads also snowballs threaded on radio antennae. Sleds and skis appeared on the Valley hills, but toboggans were sheets of heavy cardboard, or large tin pans.

A progress report was made by William R. O'Dell-James D. MacConnell Associates of the Stanford Professional Center to members of the Carmel District School Board at a dinner meeting yesterday prior to the regular board meeting.

Dr. O'Dell, who is also a professor of education at Stanford University, said his agency will this month interview each board member separately to determine wishes of the trustees and answer individual questions prior to completing Stage 1 at the end of February of the evaluation project asked for by the district.

The O'Dell-MacConnell firm is under contract to assess the needs of the central office staff for the instructional program and prepare recommendations for salary schedules for all school administrators and other non-teachers.

Girl Scouts of Carmel Troop 71 will appear at City Hall this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock with Mayor Frank Putnam and other city officials for the ceremonial planting of two yellow rose bushes which will mark in Carmel the golden anniversary of Girl Scouting which is being observed this year.

The roses are a new hybrid, according to troop leaders, particularly suited to Carmel's city hall garden. Heading Troop 71 are leaders Mrs. Del Wermuth, Mrs. Mort Walker and Mrs. Richard Lofton.

Last week Brownies planted daffodils in the city hall garden. Mayor Putnam greeted the little girls, who sang songs as they worked.

Carmel High Principal Warren Edwards and Junior High Principal Walter Klas did a herculean job assembling data for presentation of the new junior high-senior high curriculum before the school board last night.

But the thing they seemed proudest of, and with reason, was the transfer of the Driver Training course from the Social Sciences division to the Industrial Arts division of courses. "It never really belonged in Social Sciences," Edwards said. "It doesn't really belong in Industrial Arts, either, but it's an improvement, we think."

February Symphony Concert Soloists, Program Announced

Two soloists of exceptional talent, Raymond Fabrizio and Joel Andrews; and the premiere of a new symphony by the local composer, Phillippe Buhler, will highlight the Monterey County Symphony's next concert on February 5.

Flutist Raymond Fabrizio, and harpist Joel Andrews will combine their talents in a presentation of Mozart's Concerto for Flute and Harp. Mr. Andrews, a young musician of extraordinary ability and virtuosity, is currently on the faculties of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and the Music Academy of the West in Santa Barbara, and is also busy as a concert artist. He has appeared locally as a recitalist at last season's Musica Viva Concerts, where his performance was received with great enthusiasm.

Another musician of exceptional virtuosity, Raymond Fabrizio, has performed as soloist in this area with a number of groups, including the San Francisco Chamber Players, the Bach Festival Orchestra, and the Monterey County Symphony. In addition, he has played with the San Francisco Symphony, the San Francisco Ballet Orchestra, and the Little Symphony of San Francisco.

Rounding out the program will be the lively and tuneful Outdoor Overture of Aaron Copland, and the romantic and ever popular Siegfried Rhine Journey by Wagner.

Tickets for the performance are currently on sale at the Browse Around Shop.

As Unitarians we stand for these things

We stand for Religion against the rising tide of secularism in a world that has very largely accepted a materialistic if not an atheistic philosophy.

We stand for Tolerance in a world that is increasingly dominated by sectarianism and bigotry.

We stand for Liberty in a world that has at many points surrendered to arbitrary authority.

We stand for Reason in a world that has succumbed to an alarming degree to blind emotionalism.

We stand for Individual Responsibility in a world that puts its trust chiefly in mass movements and a regimenting State.

We stand for the Ethics of Jesus in a world that seems to have reverted to the ethics of the jungle.

Blanks, Edwards, Candidates For Carmel City Council

Warren Edwards has been principal of Carmel High School for seven years; before this he was vice principal in charge of boys for a year and a half. He served on the city council of Fortuna in Humboldt County for two years while teaching English and speech in Fortuna High School.

Warren Edwards was born in Berkeley in 1920. His father, Dr. Hiram Edwards, taught physics at the University of California at that time. Several years later, Dr. Edwards went to Los Angeles as a member of the nucleus faculty of the University of California at Los Angeles when Los Angeles Normal School became UCLA.

Warren Edwards attended school in Southern California, studied two years at UCLA then transferred to the University of California at Berkeley and received bachelor's degree in 1943. He was a member of the Naval ROTC during his college years and in 1942 was commissioned as an ensign.

He spent the war years on active duty with the U. S. Navy in the South Pacific on a destroyer, then in 1946 returned to Berkeley and studied for two years in the school of architecture at the University of California.

However, he decided his true interest was teaching and in another year at the university obtained credentials, then taught in Humboldt County for three years. In 1950-51 he worked for a master's degree and administration credentials at Stanford University, following this came to Carmel.

He and his wife, Pat, have two children, Bill, 12 years old, and Peggy, ten.

Trustees Approve Tougher Courses For Grades 7-12

World history will be a required sophomore subject, complying with the recent California law making it so. Math courses will be based on the new School Math Study Group formula recently initiated on a pilot basis in Carmel schools.

While no fourth-year Latin appears on the curriculum, the administrators explained the third-year course can be taken two years, once as Vergil, once as Cicero.

In addition to the new schedule, Edwards and Klas presented supplemental studies on percentage of college attendance on the part of Carmel High graduates.

In the first year following graduation, the study showed, 54 percent are enrolled in junior colleges, nine percent in state universities, 12 in private colleges, 12 at the University of California, and 14 in private out-of-state institutions of learning. On an eight-year basis, of students graduated from Carmel High in 1954, 90 percent attended college at least one year, 77 percent at least two years, and seven percent were participating in graduate work as late as the sixth year following graduation from high school. A substantial number remained for eight years advanced study, according to the Edwards-Klas charts.

One of the more startling findings, the administrators said and the board agreed, was the high percentage of Carmel High graduates who have entered the field of education since 1954. Fifty percent of all those who graduated from colleges since then have become teachers or entered allied careers in education.

In other business last night, the school board:

Awarded a contract to Granite

Construction Company for construction of the bus service yard at the Tularcitos School campus in Carmel Valley. The Granite bid was $5,080, the only one received by the board.

Accepted a cash bid from the Crown Coach Corporation of $25,688, with money to come from the building fund and the 1962-63 general fund, for purchase of a 91-passenger diesel-powered school bus, which will be needed to transport students to the new Carmel Junior High School when it opens next fall.

Voted to award a contract to Republic Steel Corporation which will furnish the district with corridor lockers, and girls' and boys' locker-room lockers at the high school at $18,149.00. This was a low bid in a field of two.

Awarded to San Jose Steel, low bidder in a field of four, a contract for fencing campuses at Carmel High, Carmel Junior High, and the new bus service area at Tularcitos, at a total of $5,471.

Approved a change in tuition for Carmel Adult School, on a request from Chuck Dawson, adult school principal, who asked a $5 per semester fee (rather than a $5 per class fee) on all courses except driver training, which is $15.00, and Bach chorus and symphony orchestra, which remains at $1.00, and citizenship for aliens, for which there is no tuition charge.

Mr. Dawson also received board approval for two new courses: rocks and minerals, and training for legal secretaries, provided there is sufficient enrollment for both.

The tuition change, Dawson said, would enable students to take more than one class and equalize the present inequity between short-term classes, some of which meet only one night a week, and those classes consuming a full semester.

Heard and agreed with a clarification of cafeteria policy made by District Superintendent Stuart Mitchell, the essence of which is that cafeteria income should support the school cafeteria program, with prices of meals to be adjusted to meet this requirement.

The superintendent recommended the board consider adopting this as a district policy, to go into effect beginning the next school year, with some possible immediate adjustments in meal prices if necessary.

Ratified the employment of Giuseppe Manuguerra, Jr., as a high school custodian.

Heard a monthly financial report from Assistant Superintendent Wayne Greenfield showing $575,491.78 expended, and $906,514.60 encumbered from the current budget of $1,563,950, leaving a balance of $81,943.62.

Editorial . . .

(Continued from Page One) the division, in this area, is reluctant to enter into any path construction that will remove trees along the highway because this community is known as one which fights for its trees. So we should . . . and there are 50 trees where the path should go.

However, 100 boys and girls brave the much traveled highway five days a week. This community also fights for its children.

Residents of Happy Valley near Lafayette felt so strongly about a similar situation that they persuaded owners of property along the highway in their school district to allow free access across private land for a pedestrian path, raised funds and constructed the path as a community project.

This community could promise the State Division of Highways that, if the path is provided, local organizations and groups will assume the responsibility of replacing the trees.

Let's do something! There's no way now for those 100 children, sometimes shrouded in fog and rain, to walk from their homes to school except along the paved roadway with cars whizzing by.

Every tree can be replaced. A child, never.

Therefore, the recommendations stated, owners of corner lots in the business district suffered no inequity and are not penalized by the 80-foot frontage requirements, which limits size of structures and protects streets from large expanses of building.

Signs may be placed on the sides of buildings, commissioners decided, if size is not objectionable; the signs do not unpleasantly affect the surrounding area; are more suitable than a sign over the sidewalk; and are not placed over the roof of an adjacent building.

The commission also approved a street frontage of 37 and one-half feet for a residential lot owned by H. R. Olson on Santa Fe between Fifth and Sixth. Mr. Olson plans to remove a burned building on an adjacent lot, also nonconforming guest cottages on both lots.

Commissioners requested Thomas Elston, architect for the Vasconcellos store and 20-unit motel development, to submit further plans and, if possible, provide that the three-story part of one building not be visible from the street; also provide more adequate screening for the parking area along Junipero.

Expert On Phonic Reading Approach Speaks Here Wed.

(Continued from Page One) purpose in education is to teach the child to think. She believes that unless there is mental control there can be no emotional control—that a happy child is one who functions on a maturity level." To provide material to meet the maturity level, Miss Carden outlines a literature program for each grade, with such titles as Beatrix Potter's Peter Rabbit for the first grade; Mother West Wind and others for the second. Later on, children read and study Greek Myths, Tom Sawyer, Treasure Island; among other books.

Those who use the method say that an average first-grader under this teaching learns to read, write and spell 2,000 new words. Neatness and correctness is stressed from the beginning. Before other audiences, Miss Carden has said, "I'm out to make learning the greatest joy and the greatest thrill possible."

Miss Carden's talk in Carmel is sponsored jointly by members of the Professional Study Committee on Reading and the Citizens Committee, and is presented by the Carmel Unified School District as a part of this year's program of inquiry into various reading systems. Interested teachers and parents will be attending the meeting, which is open to the public.

Annabelle Sanne

Mrs. Annabelle Sanne, wife of the late Alfred B. Sanne, Carmel restauranteur, died early yesterday in a local hospital. She was 78, and had been a resident of this area since 1948. Her death followed a short illness.

Mrs. Sanne was born in Wisconsin on September 18, 1883, and came to Carmel with her husband, who operated the former Normandy Restaurant on Ocean Avenue. Mr. Sanne later became catering manager at La Playa Hotel. Her home was at Monte Verde Street and Seventh Avenue. Mrs. Sanne leaves a nephew, Robert Patchin of Quincy, California.

Funeral rites, with the Paul Mortuary in charge, will be solemnized tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the Paul Mortuary Chapel, Pacific Grove, with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray of the Church of the Wayfarer officiating. Interment will follow in El Carmelo Cemetery.
